all-America selections on both major wire service polls

Kentucky's 22nd all-America Vol. LIV. No. 72 player made the select squad despite a rather disappointing season. After winning the Southeastern Conference scoring crown last season, Nash finish i third this year with a 20.6 average.

Named to the first team were Jerry Harkness, Chicago Loyola; Art Heyman, Duke; Ron Bon-ham, Cincinnati; Gary Bradds, Ohio State: Barry Kramer, New York University; and Tom York University; and Tom Thacker, Cincinnati, Harkness, Bonham, Heyman, and Bradds made first team on both press polls. Kramer made the Associ-ated Press first squad while Thacker made the United Press International first team.

Joining Nash on the AP second squad were Rod Thorn. West Virginia; Walt Hazzard, UCLA; Bill Bradley, Princeton, and

Last season, Nash was the first sophomore ever chosen as SEC player of the year. He averaged 23.4 last season.

Nash opened this season with a bang, scoring 34 points in the season opener against Virginia Tech in a losing cause.

The blond bomber became the 13th Kentucky cager to score 1,000 points with his 14-point outburst against Florida Feb. 2.

Cotton's 20.6 average gives him two of the top four single seson averages posted by Kentucky cagers, Cliff Hagan holds the other two high averages with 24.0 and 20.8 seasons.

Nash altered between forward and center this year in Kentucky's sputteding atlack. Even though he was one of the smallest major college centers, he led the Cats in rebounding again this year.

Nash is also an outstanding baseball player and recently denied reports he would quit Kentucky after this season and sign a professional baseball contract. He posted a 3.15 earned run average and a 4-1 pitching record last season in baseball. Catton also hit 269 and hit tive home

Board Suspends Peterson; Practices To Be Investigated

UK Fiscal Officer States Politics Motivates Claims He Improperly Used Office

By RICHARD WILSON, Managing Editor

The University's vice president for business administration, Frank D. Peterson, was suspended yesterday pending an investigation by a New York firm of University business trans-

Suspension came by a 5-1 vote of the Board of Trustees after Gov. Bert 1. Combs had presented information indicating Peterson used his position to further his personal financial

In the governor's statement it was alleged that Peterson, through his dealings in University-related real estate transactions, stock ownership in a laundry, the service, and vending machine lirm, personally profited over a ten-year period.

The board members were told that although Peterson was not accused of violating a criminal law, his actions were morally wrong.

After considerable debate the board accepted the report of a committee that there were not sufficient grounds for preferring charges. Instead, the committee recommended that a professional study be made, and the board voted to suspend Peterson until the study was completed.

Peterson replied that the governor's statements were erroncous. "This undoubtedly starts a comroversy that will not end shortly," he added. It is not important that I stay at the University, but it is important to the University that the judgment of the University be brought back to the campus."

He also stated that the governor's action was politically motivated. He did not elaborate on this assertion.

Statements from President Frank G. Dickey and President Lineritis H. L. Donovan were issued later in the day defend-

Dickey's statement read:

"This action appears to be the culmination of a long-term effort on the part of some local and state politicians to conduct a 'get Peterson' compaign. I can place no other interpretation on this matter except that political motivations are

The statement further pointed out that Dickey and the Executive Committee members of the Board of Trustees were familiar with Peterson's activities as cited by the governor.

"While there may be a feeling on the part of some person that errors in judgment may have occurred, there seems to be little evidence that would lead to the conclusion that any law has been violated. Nothing illegal has been done in connection with University monies," the statement added.

Dickey said Peterson's labors had placed the University in a much stronger position than it would have been without Donovan's statement merely pointed out his knowledge and sanction of Peterson's business interests. His statement said these interests did not conflict or prevent Peterson from managing the business interests of the University in a superior manner with excellent results.

The governor had previously called two informal board meetings at which Peterson's linancial transactions were discussed. At the second meeting, held Jan. 25, a special committee composed of Dr. Harry Denham, Maysville, Dr. Lewis Cochran, University professor of physics, and Judge James Sutherland, Bardstown, was chosen to weigh the evidence as presented against Peterson at that time and make a report at a later date.

After reading his statement to the board yesterday, Combs asked the committee for its findings.

Reading a prepared statement. Judge Sutherland said: "On the facts considered by it, the committee reports that in its judgment there are not sufficient grounds for preferring charges and recommends, therefore, that charges not

The law was passed in March of 1960 but did not go into cfe t until the sammer of 1961. President Dickey stated he thought it was the infinit of the fegisliture that the period be-tween the enactment and enforcement of the law was to al-to anyone so allied to divorce themselves from firms in which they held interest.

Dickey also said that University accounts were audited regularly and that there was no question of fund discrepancy. He also stated there was no intent o hide or conceal any funda mentioned and that all Univer-sity funds were included in tinancial reports and were a mater of public record

In his statement to the board, Gov. Combs made the following allegations:

- 1. Peterson owned stock from 1950 to 1956 in Hart's Bachelor Leundry and used his position with the University to further the interests of this firm and ilm.-elf.
- 2. The fiscal officer had used the authority veited in him by the board to handle University real estate transaction to his tinancial gain.
- 3. Peterson owned stock in General Tire Service and re-ceived money for consulting services rendered in 1953, 1959, and
- 4. From 1955 until 1961, Cenral Kentucky Enterprises, Inc., owned all candy, coffee, and snack vending machines on the campus. No competitive bids were taken for the placing of these machines by oral agreement with Dr. Peterson, although written contracts made assuring the University of 10 percent of the aress.

At the same time, no clubs or student groups were allowed to bring in or own vending machines

As a consultant to this firm. Peterson was paid $6,500 in 1958, $7,900 in 1959, and $2,300 in 1960.

A board member, Sam Ezelle, Louisville, stated, "I don't believe the citizens of Kentucky would condone a man who would use his position to line his pocket.

"I find this whole atfair dis-gristing and hocking," Ezelle continued, "We have a man here who has made $16,700 as a con-sultant of a firm of which he was a half owner.

Old Dog, New Tricks

In a recent speech. President Dickey commented that he "is deeply concerned with the professor who remarks that he can hold the percentage of successful students in his classes to a bare minimum.

We, too, are concerned.

Such an idea, according to Dr. Dickey, does not necessarily mean that the teacher has set ellective standards. It more than likely means that the teacher has "dedicated all his chorts to failing and very little or none to teaching."

There are too many instances on our campus where a professor fbuiks a certain amount of students, just for the sake of "balancing the curve." or satistying his ego.

Granted, many students deserve to be failed. But we believe that a professor who habitually fails an abnormal number of students is not reflecting the toughness or his course. rather it is a sign of his poor and inadequate prescntation of the material in the classroom.

We are all familiar with the old maxim. "He is smart and knows his subject, but he can't teach it." We know this is true, but we also believe there are professors who can't teach a subject, and many times this is due to poor preparation and to the lack of interest in a certain subject.

In the past live years, the University has made great strides in upgrading the scholastic program. Many courses have been re-evaluated and either climinated or changed. But for the most part, the courses are more demanding, and more interesting than ever before.

The quality of the students is conthinally increasing, as is evidenced by recent studies, sorveys and the declining number of drop-onts.

In like manner, the professors are adjusting themselves and their courses to this more scholastically desirable environment.

But bist as ther are deadwood students, there are also "deadwood professors.

It is a sad from to note that these teachers hide their ineffectiveness behind the thin facade of failing balt of the class or more. It is hard to comprehend how a teacher can justify his conscience for a job that he knows is not his best.

We would like to think that a teacher here at the University is continually re-evaluating himself to see if he is doing his best. If he is doing his best and making a proper contri-Inition to the University ideals, this is fine. But if he is not putting forth a maximum ellort, or it his best is not good enough, he should then resign from the University staff, thus not only doing justice to himself and the University but the student as

In conclusion, Dr. Dickey said. The agent of growth is the teacher himself . . . his resolution must be strong enough to enable him at times to compensate for shortage of time, energy, or resources, or even for indifferent support by institutional superiors."

As the University and the students grow, we would like to see professors grow along with us.

An old dog can learn new tricks.

Press loves track like he loves his right and, as late toremined to give it its projet place on the Lexington colours

"After all," he says, "we have the linest facilities for track in the emire conference, why shouldn't we get aushare of the honors?"

If sheer determination and hard work mean anything, Press Whelan will see his dream come true in the not too distant future.

He has already given us a sample of the terribe possissibilites of indoor mack for the cold winter months.

On those weekends when the baskerball team is a lay, for instance, it would indeed be a service to overused surdent pockerhooks to be able tocattend a low cost, well handled indoor track meet.

In some areas of the midvest and also throughout the eistern sector of our commy, indoor meets are held starting in December. The linest athletes are assembled for the meets, which can be viewed by a great number of people in very comfortable surroundings and, for very reasonable poless.

Louisville has for the past two years, sponsored the Mason-Dixon Games, and those who have attended admit they have come away satisfied. If people show the curhusiasm for track in Lexington as they have in other areas, it might be conceivable by a joint meet to be sponged with the Louisville one which would bring these very same topflight athletes right in o one own leackvard.

The chance to show your support of the trick and fell. program of the University is drawing near. When the weather clears enough to let the ground become soft again, UK's thinclads will take to the out of doors for competition with source of the best trackmen available in this area.

Track meets at the University are held in the afternoon and sometimes on Saturday mornings. In the past, only in interested few have turned out to watch the proceedings. Those of you who are always kicking for lack of things to do. will have plenty of room in the stands if you decide to artend one of more of the meets.

Not to be largorten during the presentation of these acolades is Boh Johnson, head coach of the University mack Wildcats. Since he first came to UK, he has worked hard to seeme the type of athletes necessary for Kentneky to compete on a level with other SEC powerhouses.

Last year, Johnson rounded up what appeared to be the creme of the high school track crowd in Kentucky. He latched on to Lexingtonian Jim Gallagher who potentially is one of the best middle distance men around.

John Sears is another freshman who be us close watching. He has already turned in several creditable performations in the field and froges to crack the 1:15 mark in the near article.

Desliman Bill Arthur from Ashland also runs the middle distances, and is just a shade behind Gallagher. He too, be as close watching in the fature.
